THE Richmond Whig does not like the entennial proceedings in Philadelphia a few ays ago. That particle print is shocked hat "General Hawley referred to the vulgar ople of money as indispensable for earrying sut the programme." There is work for the er around that office.

COMPLAINTS, official and otherwise, havched Washington regarding the conduct the American Legation at Pern. It seems I Judge Thomas, our present Minister, ignored many of the courtesies and convontional usages which are supposed to be due to his subordinates, and that he left his post of duty, leaving the affairs of the Lega-tion in charge of an irresponsible necessities.

SENATOR THERMAN stands by the Demo-rizatic party and wants all Democrats to do the same thing. In a recent interview with the reporter of a Western paper he character-need the action of the Allen county (Ohio) Democrats as "hasty, ill-advised, and not alculated to meet the approbation of the battoorsaile party at large." This will be old comfort for the Liberal Republicans, and here is no doubt that he will be roundly bused for those Bourbon ideas and opinions. he policy of the Democratic party every-flere now, and especially in Ohio, should of for those Bourbon tasks and opinions, policy of the Democratic party every-e now, and especially in Ohio, should thinks, to "run astrakght-out ticket, with dates of known acceptabilities." They not win in the immediate future, but

THE PORCE of social influence in this dem scratic country of ours was never more forci-Veed and General Hardin, together with the orisoner's mother, called on Sheriff Brennan m Monday to ask that young Walworth be emoved from the vicinity of "convicted elons" in the Tombs. To the unprejudiced nind Walworth is a convicted felon, and the request to remove him from contact with his fellows of a similar criminal grade is not apported by the forelible facts which present themselves in the consideration of his case. The jury before which he was tried and the The jury before which he was tried and the-court by which he was sentenced have given him the reputation of being a convicted and sentenced felon, and although there may be a sickly sentimentality of feeling in his favor, justice demands that under existing circumstances he is entitled to no more dis-tinctive consideration than that which is ex-tended to any other convicted criminal. It is true that Walworth may have been taught to his victin to believe in the insidice of the by his victim to believe in the justice of the terrible retribution which he inflicted on the persecutor of his mother; but an impartial court has decided this palliation of his crime to be an insufficient excuse, and until the clemency of the executive interposes in his behalf, a possibility, if not a probability, of the not far-distant future, the public interest and public safety demand that no distinction shall be made on account of the social posi-

THE JULY NUMBER of the African Reposi-tory, which we have just received, contains a good deal of valuable information in regard to Liberia, the present condition and pros-pects of the colony. The exports to England and this country are on the increase; the last configrants sent out are reported to be doing well; some being engaged in planting and others in creeting confortable houses for themselves and their families. New school-bourses are being bull and altograther the setpublican Administration hools away in this country, the "intelligent" white capitalists of the South will withhold every conceivable support to the success of national enterprise. It is foolish to say that this is the result of the poverty entailed upon the South by the late war, for the truth shows the contrary; and while the masses may yet be enfering from those sad causes, there are hundreds and thousands of business men who have really made themselves rich by the misfortance of their neighbors. This is apparent these who have head thus benefits of any of the misformation of the most casenal observer, and among these who have been thus benefited are to be found the very mon who call themselves publicapirited citizens. They acknowledge the value of advertising the resources of their State and the necessity of emigration to its borders, for the purpose of promoting the State and the necessity of emigration to its borders, for the purpose of promoting the general welfare and bringing into productive-tuces the thousands of lide across the payment of taxes on which now makes the owners "land-poor." THE OPPOSITION TO GEN. BUTLER. With the exception of President Grant here is no man in the country who has a ponents. The Liberal Republican who, in the national canvass last fall, organs who, in the national canvass last ran-dragged American journalism down to the lowest depth of diagrace, are, of course, all arrayed against him, reprinting the old stan-ders and calumnies that have been answered hey are now waging against him exceeds, if cossible, in virulence and downright falsegood, that which they then waged against the hood, that which they then waged against the trusted leader of the Republican party. The disreputable tactics pursued by these un-scrupulous journals is well known to the public. Not satisfied with the usual edi-torial denunciation based on groundless charges, the news is colored and falsified to further their private and personal ends. The their private and personal ends. "WassInserow, D. C., July S.

"Numerous inquiries are coming to friends here from prominent Republicans of Massachisetts concerning the attitude of the Administration towards General Butter. Nearly all get the narwer that the Administration, as such, has taxen as attitude, but the personal recling of a large majority of the chief efficars of the Government is that either the noministion or election of Butter would be deeply injurious to the fame and rature of the Republican party."

On the day the above was written there was not in this city a single "chief officer of the Government" who was in any way authorized or entitled to speak for or represent the Administration politically. The letter was, of course, written in the Globe office by the fertile and ingenious Boston ex-correspondent of Sam Bowles' untruthful Spring-field Republican. And the Globe, we are told, represents the solid respectability of the capital of Massachusetts.

"The Republic."

This is the title of a monthly magazine, published in this city, devoted chiefly to political information. It has reached its fifth number, and a stready on a good footing. Some of the ablest political writers in this city contribute to its pages. The Joir number has a very able and discriminating article on the late Chief Justice Chief, and a thrilling narrative of the attempted amassimation of the Sewards. The Louisiana question and the Supreme Court decisions are discussed with great ability in the Jane and July numbers. ers. Irs of the magazine may be found in most Having procured tickets of admission, we proceeded this morning to the royal stables, and were astounded at their dimensions. I stated in a former letter that these buildings covered ground about four times as large as Franklin square. We found upon entering them that eight times the space of Franklin square would be nearer the correct figure. The number of royal coachimen is asventy, possilions forty, and two hundred grooms for the horses, with about fifty stable-boys and laborers. The Emperor and Empress are both passelonately fond of horses, and can "talk horse" with the best jockeys in the lend. It is evident that they do not latend this to be regarded as a "one-horse country. There is a hospital for horses, with a professor and students, and a large horse-spotherary shop among the buildings.

We were ne't taken into the carriage loft, and here were two hundred carriages, about decrous vehieles, covered all over with gill, some of them especially for grant state chosen and others for daily or grant state chosen and others for daily non-test details and house the grand gift charlot, built for Marts. We also visited, in a large building, the royal riding-school for use in winter, where the boys and girls of royal blood are taught to ride on horseback. It is an immense hall, 30 feet long by 130 in width, with a canopy-box for the emperor and empress to sit and witness the performance. It has a carefully-prepared turf stoor, and the walls and ceiling are elegantly ornamented. This being only floor, with fines for heating it. Mr. James Parton's paper on "The Presidential Election of 1800," in the Atlantic Monthly for July, contains the following picture of Thomas Paine and his abode in Paris after the American war:

"Mr. Jufferson's letter found him the occupant of 'a little dirty room, containing a small wooden table and two chairs,' An old English friend, who visited him not long after he had received it, describes Paine's abode, which he had much trouble to find, as being the dirtlest apartment he ever sai down in. 'The chimney hearth was a heap of dirt;' he adds: 'there was not a speek of cleanliness to be seen. Three shelves were filled with pasteboard bores, each labeled after the manner of a minister of foreign affairs, 'Correspondence Britannique, Francaise, 'etc. In one corner of the room stood several lung bars of iron, curiously shaped, and two large trunks; opposite the irreplace, a board covered with pamphicts and journals, having more the appearance of a dresser in a scullery than a side-board.'
